

Hello. I'm very interested to get as much as possible engaged with the graduate student community. I've learned so much by serving on different committees here at the university of Iowa (you can refer to my resume), and I still like to learn more. I believe GPSG is the acme of all graduate involvements and enterprises, and one who makes it at GPSG probably will make it anywhere ;) EGSC and GSS have been great, and I plan to continue to be affiliated with them if possible. But GPSG seems to be one of a wider scope and audience, more marked impact on student life, and maybe in some ways invested with more executive power (? I don't know actually.)

I love to understand how organizations work, including from a financial point of view, and being the financial director, or vice president, are my two top choices for executive positions at this election.

I believe I could contribute some of my energy and enthusiasm into this council, along with a critical, rational and very creative extra mind around the table.

Thank you so much for your consideration
